ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE IN CONSTRUCTION

Join us for this interesting and important online workshop, presented by Peter Brogden, Barrister at Keating Chambers, as part of the Association's ongoing mission to provide regular upskilling opportunities for its members and for everyone interested in Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR).

ABOUT THE WORKSHOP:<sup>1</sup>

Peter will cover the practical use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) in construction law and the associated implications that may arise.

ABOUT OUR PRESENTER:

Peter Brogden:

Peter is an experienced construction barrister with principal specialities in construction, energy, shipbuilding and technology disputes. He has worked on a range of engineering disputes, including power stations, pipelines, oil rigs, LNG processing facilities, refinery and extraction, biomass and civil infrastructure projects. His work includes arbitrations seated around the World, including Australia, Korea, Hong Kong, Singapore and South Africa.

He has a 'good eye for detail' and is recognised in the legal directories noting his 'superior forensic capability enabling him to distil complex points and identify risks and issues'. He is also ranked in Legal 500 Asia for "his technical expertise, wider than the law, [which] sets him apart from the others".

Peter is an Honorary Professor at University College London, where he teaches contract administration and law. He sits on the Bar Council's Information Technology Panel which advises barristers and government departments on security, data management, GDPR and emergent technologies. He is an accredited panel adjudicator, and a contributing author of Keating on Construction Contracts and Keating on Offshore Construction and Marine Engineering Contracts.
